

Prologue

Eldoria: pretty much the same as your world, humans getting torched and eaten by dragons. The war between dragons and humans is intense, just when the dragons start winning, they kill 10 dragons with one human, but one dragon could be evil.

Chapter 1

Jack was a dragon with a rare ability to talk to dragons and humans, he was the only one who could stop the war and save humans and dragons, but could not do it alone; he needed help and his friends. Violet was nice, but sometimes rushed into battle without thinking, Grayson, who was speedy like a ninja, and was secretive, but not to his friends. Blue was kind and sweet, but had no fighting skills, they were there everywhere they went, their parents all died in the war. Hence, they had to come together and stop it “But what if they couldn't what if, no I can't think that” thought Jack, he didn’t know it but he was about to set off on a heroic quest, a journey of will and strength he knew he could but he was still worried and that was why he shook when he saw it. The wicked was evil and wanted to kill all humans and dragons, only him, he spread fake news that a dragon had died in front of their house, and he had to take it away and kidnap their husbands. But anyway back to our friends: “were is the wicked” asked Jack but no one knew, you see, The Wicked's location was unknown no one even knew if it was human or dragon so they looked and did not find any clues until they met a shadowy figure it was (the dragons don't know this) a half-human half-dragon mix that could communicate with both, though it seemed nice, was it? They talked and found out some secrets about The Wicked and some clues, but no giveaways on where to find it.

Chapter 2

They followed the vague directions of the mysterious figure, they still didn’t know if they trusted him,  but they knew that it was the only thing they had. “I’m booooooored” said Jack but he kept flying. It felt like they were flying half the continent, but they pushed on until it grew dark and they found The Wicked's base. As they went, they thought what if it was a trap, but when they got down they realized their wings were bound, this was not right.

It turns out they were in a colosseum and someone was saying "Ready, Set, FIGHT". A ginormous dragon emerged from the shadows and started breathing fire in their faces. They all dodged just in time, but his hand was right there, then he grabbed them and threw them, but Blue escaped. He was not a fighter, but he managed to hit him with fire in his weak spot by accident, he howled and ran away, he left the arena, but it was not over. The announcer was there too, guess who it was. THE WICKED He ran away through the tunnel, by the time they could see him, he was flying away. They could not follow him and risk being seen

"Okay, we need a plan," said Jack. "Maybe we could fly in the direction he went, but later so he doesn't see us," said Grayson. That is what they did, but when they were flying, they noticed footprints that all of a sudden disappeared "How did that happen," said Blue no one knew they dug and found a treasure chest with a note that said my secret stash of loot but when they opened it sand started crumbling away. It was a trap, so they tried to fly out, but it was pulling them in. So they let it take them to the dungeon with a gravity trap, it pulled them in if they could just reach the torch, they could burn it. They all lay down and pushed off each other, and Jack reached it, he burned the gravity trap so they could escape. And they flew away to the lands of the creator they had to go through a marsh and a bunch of alligators blocked them Violet wanted to fight, Blue wanted to hide, Grayson wanted to sneak attack, and Jack needed a plan so he told everyone to hide then to sneak up and fight then they did that and blue was good at picking a hiding spot, Grayson was good at sneaking, Violet and Jack were good fighters, and so they kept on their journey.

Chapter 4

The next obstacle on their journey was a rainforest that had wet leaves and blood-sucking mosquitoes, but that was nothing compared to the dark leaf maze. They could not see at all, they could not breathe fire to see because of the animals. Then they heard something scream, it was Violet, she was hungry, tried to get fruit and fell through a trap door, they ran toward the scream, but they could not see and fell too. It just kept on going until, splat, they fainted when they woke up, they were in a dungeon, again so they had to get out, ROOOAAARRR, they were not alone, tigers were hunting them down, they flew up and dove at the tigers and clawed them. But it took forever, and finally, they got the last lion. Ka-klink they heard a noise the TV turned on and a shadowy figure they could only guess was The Wicked so they he told them that they were so stupid for falling in that, “the door is unlocked by the way, bye” said The Wicked they opened the door but when they left they were at the creator.

Chapter 5

They asked the creator where to find The Wicked and he said “Go home to the place you live and dig” “I can't believe it” said Violet “He was right under our noses” “What are you waiting for slowpokes” said Jack as he was flying away they “♪Going through the marsh on our wings, going through the forest with trees, now we are back home hoooome♪” sang Violet when the song ended they were home. They dug and dug and dug but when they didn’t find it, they dug in other places. Their old home, when they had parents, just had old stuff they used to have then. They were out of ideas, they hung out in the barn, where Blue was fiddling with the shovel. He felt something like a ceiling turned out they left too soon, the creator actually said "Go to the place you live and dig with pigs". They had to find a way in, they dug down beside it and melted the window with their fire. They were in the lair of The Wicked.

Chapter 6

The Wicked's lair was a labyrinth of different puzzles. First was a maze where they had to follow the right wall until they got out. Next was a Sudoku puzzle that only Grayson knew how to solve. Next was a fighting test, how much can you destroy the test dummy? Then the final puzzle was a kindness test, Violet aced that one. There he was, the Wicked, he was in the light this time and he was a half-human, half-dragon, he had the strength of a dragon and the knowledge of a human. They dodged and weaved, but it wasn't enough, they lost and were put in yet another dungeon. Sand was slowly rising, they had to do something quickly before they got buried forever. Jack saw an opening back up, but it was too small now that the sand was here, they dug and dug. The opening was big enoug,h now they came back out and saw The Wicked.

Chapter 7

When they emerge, Jack sees him and says "Maybe we could work together" "NO, my plan is almost complete," said The Wicked "But..." Before Jack could answer, the entire dragon and human population came to the door and busted in and they all said, "We have signed a treaty, no more war, no more fights." The Wicked was crying? He said through tears," I was always bullied by both species, thank you for reaching out now I can see I was wrong there is good in the world". Then he lived with the 3 dragon friends and they played games together and had fun, finally Eldoria was laid to rest with no more wars.
